ART AND ELECTRICITY.

A Large Concourse of People Attend the Corcoran Gallery.

Fully 2,000 people took advantage of the occasion and visited the Corcoran Art Gallery last night to view the many and costly paintings and statuary by clectric light. It has been decided to open the Gallery every Friday evening so long as the present interest continues. The officers of the gallery are much pleased with the success their efforts are meeting with, and will increase the electric illumination before the next opening night.

The Mary Washington Monument, The ladies of the Mary Washington Monument Association are making an earnest effort to raise a sufficient amount to build a new and elegant monument at Fredericksburg, in place of the old Mary Washington Monument now there. The latter was never fully completed and is badly battered and time-worn. It was between the two lines of fire during the battle of Fredericksburg, and the marks of hundreds of bullets can still be seen. The stone has also been badly defaced by relic hunters.

Fistic Exhibitions.

There were several lively fistic bouts at the Globe Theatre last evening. The fight between Charles Brown, colored, the Norfolk blacksmith, and Jim Broadus was especially lively. The former was trained by Northedge. Lewis Carroll and William O'Day, local men, wrestled to a finish, Graco-Roman, O'Day winning two out of Catarrh Cured. A clergyman, after years of suffering from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, and vainly trying every known remedy, at last found a prescription which completely cursed and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Professor J. A. Lawrence, 88 Warren street, New York, will receive the recipe free of charge.

A Wrestling Challenge, David Rockelli, a dapper little Washington wrestler, authorizes THE CRITIC to challenge any 109 pound wrestler in this city to a Greece-Roman contest. He can be found at Louis Montegriffo's, 311 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

"Ir 'twene nows, when 'tis down, it were well 'twere down quickly!" Is what a person thinks when he is contemplating taking a dest of old-fashioned pills. Dr. Pierce's Picasant Purgative Pellets are tiny, sugarceased granules, scarcely larger than mustard-seeds. As a remedy for all derangements of the stomach, siver and bowels, they are unequaled.

About the Planets,

"Are the Planets Inhabited," was the interesting subject of Professor George M. Searle's lecture yesterday afternoon at the Catholic University. The next lecture on Friday will be "The Distances, Dimensions and Movements of the Stars."

Advice to Mothers. Mrs. Wirslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colle, and it is the best remedy for diarrhess. 25c. a bottle. ALMOST ASPHYXIATED.

Collector Martin's Narrow Escape at the Riggs House. David Martin, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Philadelphia district, was in this city during the week and stopped at the Riggs House. He had a narrow escape from death by the inhalation of illuminating gas. Mr. Martin told the story last night as fol-

'I was shown to my room at the Higgs House by the porter, who, upon entering the room, turned on two of the burners in the chandellers. He struck a match and tried to light a gas, but the first attempt was a failure. Lighting another match he succeeded in lighting but one burner. It seems that he did not apply the match to the second and I, not noticing at the time that the gas I, not noticing at the time that the gas was escaping, went to bed, after turning out the gasjet which was burning.

"About 2 o'clock this morning I was suddenly awakened by a severe pain in the stomach, accompanied by purging. I was forced to get up and at once dis-covered the sickening smell of escaping gas. I quickly threw up a window and notified the office. The night clerk and I soon found what was the trouble, but I had had enough sleep for that night. If it had not been for an open transom it is very likely I would have suffocated. It was a close call and I feel thankful. Of course I feel the effects of the gas, but I am all right." Mr Martin is Senator Quay's chief lieutenant in Philadelphia, and his visit to this city was largely political. He expressed the opinion that a special election would be ordered soon in the Third Pennsylvania Congressional district, the one represented by the late Mr.

Asked about the talk that Senator Quay intended to resign the chairmanship of the Republican National Com-mittee Mr. Martin disposed of it with the terse remark that it was "all

Appreciating Mr. Barrett,

The officers of Washington Lodge of Elks occupied a box at the National Theatre last night. They did this to show in a measure their appreciation of Mr. Barrett's and Miss Eastlake's volunteer appearance at the last Elk's barreft.
